PRICE LIST

For Fall of 1919 and Spring of 1920

The stock I offer this season is very fine; equal to the high standard I have maintained in the past.

I always employ every means to produce superior stock; trees are planted on different soil every year. Seedlings are dipped in strong solutions; buds, grafts, and cuttings are fumigated or dipped.

This is certainly worthy of your consideration in buying nursery stock.

I have conformed to the rules and regulations of the entomologist of Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee and Louisiana, and am prepared to ship nursery stock into each of these states.

The supply of peach and plum trees is unusually short throughout the south this season. In fact, there is almost a famine, caused by the drought of last year's budding period.

I want to insist on all my customers sending in their orders at the earliest possible date, since the demand is the heaviest known this early.

The prices quoted in this list are not subject to discount. I receive hundreds of letters asking for "BEST PRICES" and "LOWEST PRICES." I have one price for all, and treat each customer with the same consideration, be the order large or small.

I cannot make any discount to COUNTY AGENTS.

Owing to the high cost of labor and packing material, no order for less than two dollars ($2.00) will be filled. My prices are as low as any reliable nursery and are very consistent with other conditions.

Customers MUST BE satisfied. If your trees are unsatisfactory when received, return them PROMPTLY IN GOOD CONDITION, and your money will be refunded.

All orders are filled as promptly as possible. Labor conditions are such that delays are sometimes unavoidable. If orders come in extreme weather I usually postpone shipment until the weather is more favorable and the soil in better condition for planting. Please be reasonable and do not expect your order shipped the day I receive it.

I appreciate the continued patronage of my old customers and thank them for their recommendations, which bring me new customers each year, and assure one and all that I shall strive to please you with honest dealings and prompt business.
